

Liposarcoma

The third and most rare lipid tumor within bone is the liposarcoma. There are only six cases documented in the world literature and, unfortunately, I do not have an example and have personally never seen one.